The Scotland squad is heading to Luxemburg this weekend to compete in a 3 Nation tournament

Despite the late withdrawal of Greece and Sweden, and the reduction of the Four Nations Championship to 3 Nations, the Scotland team are looking forward to facing their rivals in Luxemburg this weekend.

The squad will face teams from the hosts as well as playing against a team from Belgium. This tournament will held give the team an indication of what work needs to be done as they start the build up to the Euro Bowl Competition in November.

The Scotland team contains many new faces replacing individuals who went to South Africa for the Commonwealth Championships and will be the first international tournament for some of the players.
